SITUATION IS NOT BAD

Banking Board Finds Nothing for People of State to Wor- ry About Unduly

Donnybrook, N. D., Nov. 27.—Two hundred and fifty farmers meeting here late yesterday to discuss the closing of the Donnybrook State bank due to depleted reserves adopted resolutions expressing confidence in the sincerity and business integrity of the officers of the bank, and pledged $45,000 to make certain the reopening of the institution.

There is nothing in the banking situation of the state to cause any alarm to the people of the state, in the opinion of the banking board, according to Thomas Hall, who expressed this sentiment of the board following a meeting held last evening.

The meeting of the board was brief. Reports on the situation and methods of handling it were given by O. E. Loftthus, state bank examiner. Mr. Loftthus' course was approved.

The situation which North Dakota faces is not confined to the borders of the state, but is reported in all agricultural states. It is a part of the period of readjustment, which has drawn financial lines taught in all sections of the country, and is enhanced by crop failures in some sections.

Most of the banks will be reopened in the opinion of Mr. Hall, and some other state officials hold the same views.

Were it not for the fact that politics had entered so strongly in the situation it would be only a ripple in the state's business affairs, according to leading bankers. Very little loss will be sustained by the stockholders in the 15 banks which have closed, they say.

Leading Bismarck bankers declared that any bank which has conducted its business properly can get all the financial assistance necessary if the effect of the initiated law causes sudden withdrawals of cash from their bank. A meeting of the executive council of the state bankers association will be held in Fargo on Nov. 30 at which time the situation will be thoroughly canvassed.

On the one hand there is still today a movement among many Nonpartisans, to which the officials most vitally concerned in the present situation have not subscribed, to force bankers to ask the Governor to call a special session of the legislature to repeal the initiated law. The propaganda has

On the other hand there are persons who are making charges that the situation is being used in an effort to discredit the Bank of North Dakota and state officials.

O. E. Lofthus, state examiner, took exception to a headline in The Tribune over a statement he gave as to the causes of the present situation. The headline, which was "Initiate law held not cause" was not a correct heading of the contents of his statement, he said, and was using for political purposes his unbiased view of the situation.

Two banks closed late yesterday. They were the State Bank of Rham and the Farmers' and Merchants Bank of Sherwood. This brought the number of failures to 15.

No drafts have been sent out by the Bank of North Dakota withdrawing money from local banks in anticipation of withdrawals upon the Bank of North Dakota. It was said the bank today.

Forks that the board of commission

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 27.—Speaking at a meeting of the Fargo Commercial club, L. B. Hanna, former govern

Mr. Hanna said that the present is not time for panic; rather, he said, is a time for economy on the part of the individual, the state and the

GUARDIANSHIP FIGHT OVER WOLF BABY IS ENDED WITH RELATIVES WINNERS

Little Emma Wolf, sixteen months old baby, left orphaned by the murder of her father and mother together with five other Wolf children and a chore boy at Turtle Lake last April, will spend her tender years with her aunt, Mrs. Emanuel Hofer.

The guardianship fight which developed over the infant was settled by the county judge during a hearing in McLean county. Walter Keller is the legal guardian of the baby, but he is instructed to leave the baby in the care of Mrs. Hofer. The guarantee to amount to be when $16,000 and $25,000, is Emanuel Hofer.

Relatives of the Wolf baby protested against the proposal of Mr. McCulloch, the temporary guardian, that the baby be reared in an institution far from the neighborhood of the crime, so that she could not learn of the horrible fate of her family during her tender years. The relatives opposed this, but did agree that when the child is old enough to go to school it will be well to send her to a distant school, where children would not know of the fate of her parents.

DAKOTA POEMS IN BOOK FORM

"In the Land of Dakota" is the title of a book of poems issued by Hildah Lucia Winstead and published by Richard G. Badger, of Boston. The poems include "In the Land of Dakota", "The Deluge—a Berthold Indian Legend", "North Dakota's Mission", "We who Have Lived in Dakota", and others.

The poems exude the pride of the author in the glories of North Dakota and a knowledge of her pioneer days. The book probably will appeal to many North Dakota folk.

TROOPS START TO W. VIRGINIA COAL COUNTRY

Calls for Federal Aid Made by Governor of West Virginia

Chillicothe, Ohio, Nov. 27.—Four hundred and fifty soldiers of the third and nineteenth infantry entrained here at noon for strike duty in Mingo county West Virginia coal strike zone. They were in command of Colonel Hall, of the Nineteenth Infantry.

GOVERNOR CALLS
Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 27.—Governor John J. Cornwell announced here last night that he had asked the government to send federal troops into the Mingo country, West Virginia, coal strike section and added that as soon as the soldiers took charge he would ask President Wilson to declare martial law.

CZECH WITH A SCOTCH NAME

Editor of New York Times Laid Down Scandal From Rob Roy's Clanmen.

If Harry Lauder were to read that a MacGregor was one of the leaders of Czecho-Slovakian thought in America he would doubtless conclude that the printer man had paid the type. Just the same it's a fact that the patronymic of B. C. Gregg, editor of the New York Bohemian daily, Hlas Lidu, is nothing less than a Czecho-Slovak remnant of MacGregor.

And the answer is that one of the editor's liveliest ancestors was an adventurous Scot of the great Rob Roy's clan who found his way to Bohemia and stayed there.

The real Bohemia of New York, quite unknown to the pallid Bohemians who criticize life from the elevation of a Greenwich village table d'hôte, lies in the Seventies, between Second avenue and the East river. Since the war its inhabitants call themselves Czecho-Slovakians.

Editor Gregg, whose forefathers forgot to hand him down a Scotch accent, and who wouldn't know how to say "Hot, mon!" either in Scotch or Czecho-Slovak, is a son of a renowned Bohemian patriot who served for 30 years as a parliamentary representative of his people in the legislature of their Austro-Hungarian oppressors. The editor himself is a profound student of international affairs and is looked upon as a sage by the 700,000 Czecho-Slovakians in America.—New York Sun.

Banks Don't Print Currency.

No bank in the United States is permitted to print and issue currency. The national banks can obtain national bank notes from the treasury department at Washington by depositing old government bonds as security. The treasury department also supplies federal reserve notes and federal reserve bank notes to the federal reserve banks, to be issued for general circulation, secured by gold, government bonds, or specified classes of commercial paper, or notes of merchants, manufacturers, farmers, etc. The outstanding federal reserve notes amount to 3,322 million dollars, federal reserve bank notes, 213 million; national bank notes, 723 million dollars.

Evidently Not Deeply Impressed.
"What did the editor say about your story?" asked the young man's friend. "I don't believe he liked it very much. He said that if a man found himself on a desert island with nothing to read except my story and a good dictionary, he might read the story!"

FARMERS RAISE $45,000; ASSURE BANK'S SAFETY

The authorized withdrawal of funds from the Bank of North Dakota, it is generally believed that withdrawal will be made gradually. The Grand Forks resolution authorized "as needed" which gave the opportunity for gradual withdrawal.

There are some who take the position that the Bank of North Dakota cannot relieve the situation by financial aid, holding that the only way in which the bank can aid is by withdrawing any more money than necessary at this time and by cooperating with bankers and others in delaying the withdrawal of money until local banks can obtain funds from other sources to meet any emergency that might arise.

LAYER'S EFFORT TO CHANGE PLEA IN COURT

The matter ought to be investigated by the attorneys.

Other Affidavits
Later, the state presented affidavits from a number of residents in the vicinity of the Wolf and Layer houses near Turtle Lake, bearing on the case. Sheriff Steffens, of McLean county, in his affidavit, said that Layer was lodged in jail on May 11 in the evening. On the evening of May 12, about 8:30 p. m. questioning of Layer was begun. It was about 12:15 a. m. when he confessed. Sheriff Steffens said.

Emil Haas, who roomed at the jail, declared that Layer seemed cooler and less excited after he confessed. He said that he sat on a chair in the cell after Layer confessed so that he could watch him, fearing Layer would attempt suicide, but that Layer went to bed about 4:30 a. m. and immediately fell asleep. He slept until he was called for breakfast.

Chief Martenson told of his confession, denied that Layer was threatened and said there was absolute quiet at the time. He said Layer confessed only after he was trapped in mistakes in his stories. No one in Washburn knew that Layer was arrested or was in jail except the officers, persons in the sheriff's office and the state's attorney, and that therefore there could have been no basis for mob violence fear on Layer's part.

M. Telferson, clerk of court, said that after Layer was sentenced he asked permission to go to his home and arrange his affairs before he was sent to the penitentiary. Attorney Kelly explained that the person who informed him of the finding of the cloth at the Wolf farm knew it only by hearsay and asked permission to file an affidavit on this later.

Argument in the case continued during the afternoon. Mr. Kelly's motion for a trial alleged errors of law occurring upon the trial, newly discovered evidence and that Layer waived the preliminary hearing under the criminal complaint because of fear and that the confession was obtained under duress.

Among the statements made by Layer in his affidavit was that officials told him there was a mob outside the jail and that he had better confess. When he was taken to the courthouse, he said they told him to run or a mob would get him. He asserted that he was beaten over the head by one of his questioners, whom he thought was a railroad detective, his hair was pulled and that a billy club was shaken in his face and he was told that if he did not sign the confession, his brains would be beaten out.

WAR TROPHIES BEING DIVIDED

Brought From Battlefields for Use in Loan Drives.

MANY CITIES ASK FOR THEM

Material Includes Guns of All Kinds Used by French, British and Germans, Cavalry Swords, Cuirasses, Shells and Soldier Equipment—Army and Navy Club Gets One of Largest Single Collections.

Thousands of war trophies brought from the battlefields of France for use during the Liberty loan and other drives are being distributed at the warehouse of the French mission in New York. The material includes guns of all kinds used by the French, British and Germans, cavalry swords, cuirasses, shells and soldier equipment.

Large demands for trophies have come from inland cities, according to Maj. Jean Maloy, director of the bureau of information, Direction Generale Des Services Francais Aux Etats Unis, now in New York.

One of the largest single collections, with the exception of that given to Washington for the national museum, was presented to the Army and Navy Club of America. The trophies will be preserved in a suitable environment to be included in the plans for the new $1,000,000 clubhouse that is to be erected in honor of the officers killed in the war.

Fifty Pieces in Collection
The collection of 50 pieces is made up of cannon, flame throwers, trench mortars, machine guns, bayonets, rifles, swords, cuirasses, wire-cutting machines, trench stoves, brassards, mortars, shells and other interesting and valuable trophies. The selection was made by Capt. Adrian Dunne Duty, United States signal corps, representing the club.

Tanks and German field pieces weighing from one ton to ten recently have been given to cities like Chicago, St. Louis, Chattanooga and others as far away as Texas.

A huge German listening post has been given to Bloomfield, N. J. Montclair received a whippet tank, while the National museum at Washington was awarded a large 16 mm tank. Other valuable pieces were sent to Washington, including an airplane, sample pieces of all the foreign artillery used during the war, uniforms and field kitchens.

One Big Bertha

The prize of the collection, a Big Bertha, was claimed by Mount Kisco, N. Y., and will be placed in a prominent position there. The State university of Baton Rouge, La., has requested the immediate shipment of a German minen werfer. Chattanooga has been given a German 150 millimeter gun weighing three tons.

The Chicago collection was shipped by Col. E. M. Marr. It will be shipped to that city within the next few days. Sergt. Fred Aneth, French army, who has been in charge of the material for two years, announced. An idea of the demands made for trophies, he said, could be gained from the fact that more than 5,000 French helmets and an equal number of uniforms had been disposed of.

To various parts of the American Legion field pieces have been given. All requests are filed at the office of the director general, 65 Broadway, before permission is given to inspect and select the trophies.

STOLE TO HELP MOTHER

Pilfered Books to Gain Knowledge to Aid Sick Parent.

A search for knowledge that he "might beat the game of life" and earn more money with which to care for his mother, who is dying of tuberculosis, caused the arrest in New York city of Benjamin Brines, twenty years old, a machinist by day and university student by night. He was charged with the theft of a book from the New York public library.

Brines admitted that he took books, sometimes under fictitious names, and did not return them, especially after he had kept them until "done" were due. He said he studied the books at night to gain knowledge so that he could "make things better" for his mother.

AUTOMOBILES AID TO RAIL-INCOMES, SAYS HEAD OF NATIONAL ASSOCIATION

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—Who said automobiles have taken bread from the railroads? Here are figures, given out by J. S. Marvin, general traffic manager of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, which show that the railroads of this country have thereby lost their revenues through the automobile industry. And they could have added thousands more to their incomes had they had enough freight cars.

Last year, shipments of completely assembled automobiles brought a total freight bill of $15,000,000, says Marvin. Add to this $10,000,000 freight charges for shipments of automobile parts and the total income from the industry in 1919 is estimated at $25,000,000. Due to increased freight rates, Marvin estimates the same amount of material would cost $28,000,000 to ship this year.

But 130,000 automobiles had to be delivered by their own power last year, because there were no freight cars to take them. And in the first nine months of 1920 so severely did the car shortage strike the motor industry that 446,730 machines, equal to 130,000 cars, were delivered to buyers over the highways.

"Allowing 10 per cent of this quantity as nearby or local deliveries, and $100 a carload as an average freight charge on the remaining 117,000 carloads," says Marvin, "the freight revenue lost to the carriers through inability to furnish cars during these nine months was nearly $12,000,000."

To the $100,000,000 calculated earnings for the railroads this year from this industry alone, there should be added the revenue to be obtained from shipments in and out of factories engaged in making tires, engines, frames, and other automobile parts.

Finally there is the transportation required to supply gasoline and oil to the 8,000,000 automobile owners in the United States.

“HIGH JACKS” TERRORIZING RESIDENTS NEAR N. D. BORDER, INVESTIGATOR FINDS

Correspondent Tells of Holdups of Bootleggers' Cars and Search of Houses North of Minot by “High Jacks”—Describes the workings of the “Whiskey Soviet”

“High Jacks” are terrorizing North Dakota residents along the Canadian border, says Thomas H. Moodie, staff correspondent of the Bismarck Daily Tribune. The existence of a “whiskey soviet” was found by Moodie in his investigations of the booze traffic in and around Minot. After describing a search of farm premises with prohibition officers, Moodie says:

Just then an anxious little woman came out of the house. She had seen

ARCHBISHOP HAYES TO VISIT POPE

California for the winter, driving their own automobiles.

Are On Inside

“The High Jackers know the whiskey runners’ fighting signals at the border. They drive high power cars and they know the inside of the whiskey soviet’s secret service. Crossing the border is the tense spot for the runner.

“He is supposed to receive signals flashed by auto search lights that the coast is clear. The High Jacks know the code. They give the runner the all’s well signal and then they stop him and rob him.

“The High Jacks are the men who first caused most of the runners to go armed. Runners who attempt the traffic without the sanctions of the whiskey soviet are most frequently the High Jack victims.”

As we left the Paul Young farm, Mrs. Young came out to bid us a cheery goodbye. Smiles wreath her rather comely face; and she was radiant in a new gown she had donned while the rest of us were looking down the well and sniffing about for whiskey.

Head to Hail and Hail

We dined at Snarey. The countryside seemed something unusual. Folks gathered about and eyed us curiously. Surrey is familiar with the whiskey running game; for Surrey is on the whiskey trail.

Mr. Scott pointed it out to me.

“That,” said he, “is the high-road to Black and White, Hail and Hail and Johnny Walker. Over that road in the last three months has come millions of dollars’ worth of whiskey. On the road men from Wyoming, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Kansas, Iowa, Minnesota and South Dakota have taken their lives in their hands to defy the law and the High Jacks.

“Many of them have made fortunes, some of them are dead, others of them are still traveling it, for the love of adventure seems to be strong in the whiskey runners, and most of them don’t know enough to quit when they have enough.”

Leave for Battle

Tonight I am to keep a vigil upon the whiskey trail with Rev. Mr. “Shoot-to-Kill” Watkins and his men. I will write more of it tomorrow.

I have a strong suspicion that for a lot of whiskey runners this is the night before Waterloo. There are six high-power rifles in the car in which we are leaving Minot in half an hour.

An hour and a half ago, when I left Mr. Watkins’ party, I talked with Deputy United States Commissioner Upton. He has just had a tip from a man who occupied a room in a hotel adjoining a room in which the whiskey soviet met last night to plan and discuss methods of bringing a carload of whiskey to Minot.

Big News Near

The whiskey soviet has reached the conclusion that the game is nearly up. They are asking their runners to do double duty, paying quadruple wages, asking for a little more desperation and a little more initiative all around.

Extra gunmen are going out on the whiskey cars tonight. I suspect that two of these are standing before the hotel as I write.

There is an atmosphere of the utmost intensity. Something tells me we are very near some of the biggest news that has ever broken in the Northwest.

One of Capt. Watkins’ men has just telephoned me. We are on our way to the whiskey trail for a night vigil that will not end until the wee small hours of tomorrow morning.

Moodie made some trips with F. L. Watkins, of Bismarck, state enforcement officer. He dubbed Watkins Rev. Mr. “Shoot-to-Kill” Watkins, and says:

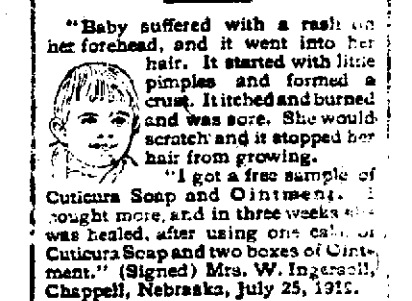

Mr. Watkins is confident he can stop whiskey running if he is given sufficient men, money and equipment. I do not think he would hesitate to create the raw material for a few funerals. He looks like that, for his eye is clear and steady gray, his manner is positive and his jaw is very square.

In his automobile is always a high power rifle, and today I heard him banter a deputy sheriff who failed to shoot a jumping jackrabbit beating it across a rolling prairie 300 yards distant, as only a jumping jackrabbit can.

I have an abiding conviction that Mr. Watkins not only can but would shoot, but I cannot agree with him that with a mere handful of men he can police a border line 300 miles long, intersected at every quarter section line by a macadam-hard highway.

Has a Problem to Solve.

At Verdun near Montreal electric light wires rubbing against the wall of a house lost their covering. The electricity ran down a metal pipe into the sheet iron covering of the building. A Jersey cow was passing with her neck chain dangling. She brushed against the house, the chain attracted the electricity and she fell dead. Her owner, Donat Mailloz, not understanding, pulled her leg to wake her up, and received a shock which sent him to sleep. He recovered after a time and is wondering whom he shall sue to obtain recompense for the loss of the Jersey—the owner of the house, the electric company, or the firm which installed the wiring.

WAR WORK STILL IS HELD SECRET

Stanford University Acquires a Notable Collection.

FILES OF RESEARCH SERVICE

Much of Material Was of Most Confidential Character During the War and Some of It is of the Same Character Still and Will Be Kept in the Library Subject to Examination Only Under Special Authority—Reports on Scientific Problems.

Stanford university has acquired another notable war history collection to be added to those housed in the university library. This latest collection is files from the Paris office of the research information service. It has been obtained through Prof. W. F. Durand, head of the department of mechanical engineering, who was in charge of the Paris office.

The collection offers a complete record of the scientific work on war problems carried on, especially during the last years of war, by the United States, Great Britain, France and Italy. It is unique among libraries, since no other copies exist in the United States except in the official files in Washington.

Not Available to All.
Much of this material was of the most confidential character during the war and some of it is of the same character still. It will be kept intact in the library of the university and for the present will be available for examination only under special authority.

The war-time research information service was organized by the national research council under the joint authority of the secretaries of war and navy and for the purpose of effecting an adequate exchange of information regarding all scientific work on war problems. Foreign offices were established in Paris, London and Rome, and between these offices and Washington there was a constant interchange of reports regarding scientific problems relating to the war.

The files in the Paris office thus contain copies of all reports originating in France and sent to Washington, also exchange copies of all reports sent from London and Rome to Washington, and, in addition, the originals of all reports received from Washington for transmission to the French and to the American military forces abroad.

Result of a Misunderstanding.
When the Paris office of the research information service was closed after the war the files were turned over to the American embassy for safekeeping. Through a misunderstanding, however, the embassy returned them to Washington instead of retaining them in Paris, as had been intended.

On being consulted by the authorities in Washington regarding the proper disposition of this material, Professor Durand promptly made application that they be stored in the library of Stanford university.

Since much of this material was of a confidential character, this permission could not be granted without reference to the chiefs of the military and naval intelligence services, but in due time the necessary authorities were secured and the material was forwarded.

INDIANS HAVE LAST LAUGH

Deliberately Placed by Whites on Arid Territories, They Have Found Them a Golconda.

About the funniest joke on white man's avarice that ever happened is the wealth of the present day American Indian tribes. No one ever intended that they should be wealthy. Far from it.

They were dispossessed of their rich lands in Iowa and Illinois and other states and sent out to what was then believed to be a godforsaken desert, where no white man would ever or could ever live. No white American wanting it, that was the proper place for the red American.

As a result of this high-minded and far-seeing policy the Indians are today, as a number of tribes, the richest people on earth.

The little old Oklahoma desert that was so nearly worthless that the white men were all agreed the red brother might have it has blossomed out into wealth. Cacti it grows cotton and corn and from the basement comes coal and fat black oil.

The Indians altogether own land covering as large an area as the states of Virginia and Kentucky, with all New England thrown in. The surface value of these lands is placed at $600,000,000.

Adding in the coal, oil, timber, herds and other property, we have a set of aboriginal wealth collectively $900,000,000. There being but 304,950 of them, this makes it Rich Lo in place of Poor Lo.—Utica Globe.

BUSINESS HAS 'GROWN SOME'

Carpet Bags Carried the First Consignments Traded to the Original Express Companies.

The express companies, employing thousands of men, and whose physical properties are worth many millions, came into being because a Boston ticket agent took a vacation. In 1839 William F. Harnden, the ticket agent, took a short "lay off," and went to New York to see James W. Hale, an employee of the New York News company. On the way down he noted various persons carrying bundles, and some were of a sort that manifestly were not for the carriers. On reaching New York he suggested to Hale that they establish an "errand" line—that is the two of them advertise in Boston and New York papers that they would, for a consideration, do errands in each town for those who had business of this sort to attend to, but not time to do it in.

The idea was put into effect, and for several months two carpet bags carried the express business of the world. Public confidence was established by this time, and two messengers were added. After that the business grew by leaps and bounds, and a year later Alvin Adams, who had opened a rival line, consolidated the two under the title of "The Adams Express company."

Carrots as "Rounders."

Intoxicated carrots are probably new to human science. Carrots may have been confirmed tipping ingredients for centuries. At least Sir J. C. Bose, founder of a botanical institution in Calcutta, has only of late found out their drinking propensities. At the Cardiff meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science he was explaining his new apparatus for marking plants record their own movements. Many plants he had discovered respond quickly to stimulants, and act very much as men do under their influence. He showed how a carrot got intoxicated when alcohol was put on it. Its records grew erratic. The mark it made went right off the straight line. A plant will also become unconscious under ether or chloroform, and recover slowly and gradually.

THE PRICE OF SAFETY

"Well, in these days it's worth something to avoid the risks of being a pedestrian."

Surprise for Puss.
In Sussex, N. J., the other day a farm out made the mistake of setting out to catch a guinea-fowl rooster. The bird assumed the offensive and went for the cat so vigorously that in a few minutes it was knocked out and killed.

The Result.
"What does Bill do now that he can no longer drown his sorrows in drink?"
"Oh, he is coming along swimmingly."

Went at It Wrong.
"Mr. Flimding has abandoned up his work."
"Couldn't she uplift anything?"
"Nothing but her patrician eyebrows."

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

GET ON SOLID GROUND

Politics and business like oil and water won't mix. The present business situation in North Dakota is ample proof of the truth of the old adage. It is high time to get business in North Dakota upon a solid basis.

If North Dakota's house is to be put in order so that 1921 will not see a recurrence of what we are witnessing today, greater safeguards must be thrown around banking in this state. Since the present regime came into power, our banking laws have been tampered with and many safeguards removed, especially restrictions upon reserves.

Informed bankers and state officials who are also members of the state banking board, know that safeguards were removed a few years ago governing the reserves state banks should maintain. This action was an invitation for wild cat banking. The Scandinavian-American bank scandal fresh in the minds of the people was a shining example of what always follows when politicians seek to play fast and loose with the banking regulations of the state.

Sufficient warning has been given to the people of the state what they can expect as long as present conditions obtain. Every effort on the part of the businessmen to correct affairs is spurned by the politicians as propaganda. Motives are impugned by league officials and out of the whirligig of controversy nothing is coming of a constructive nature.

The Tribune has tried in its treatment of this situation to eliminate politics and advocate cooperation to compose differences and get back to solid ground. Organs of the Nonpartisan league are demanding the repeal of the law passed restoring the control of public funds to the various localities. Such appeals have no place in the present situation. Banks, according to Mr. Cathro, are not being closed, primarily, because of the initiated laws regarding the future operation of the Bank of North Dakota. Experienced bankers state that no bank whose affairs are properly managed need fear the operation of that law and if embarrassed by the prospect of large withdrawals of public funds, they can receive adequate assistance until public money is redistributed and flows again in natural channels.

No relief can be had by playing partisan politics. Naturally the state administration desires the status quo of the Bank of North Dakota retained and is willing to call an extra session to accomplish it, if it is possible to get the bankers to shoulder the responsibility of such a move. It is hardly likely that any large number of bankers would seek to overturn the popular referendum which decreed an early examination of the bank and the establishment of home rule in the control of public money.

The only reasonable course to follow would be to have the bank examination and a withdrawal of public funds so timed as to disturb as little as possible the business of the state. Those who are honest enough to put politics aside for the moment, know that the initiated measures can be put into effect without disturbing financial conditions. The only persons who will be disturbed in the process will be the politicians who enjoy easy berths and desire the Bank of North Dakota to function along the old lines which the people of the state in a solemn referendum have vetoed.

They'd better call it Dis-Organized baseball.

APPLAUSE AND HISSES

Have you a right to applaud at the theatre or lecture?

Assuredly.

Why have you?

Because the actor or speaker likes it. It helps the performance.

Because the management likes it. It helps business.

Have you a right to hiss the actor or speaker?

Theoretically, yes, but do you?

The right to express approval carries with it the right to express disapproval.

Why don't you?

Is it because you have sympathy and forbearance?

Is it because of your innate courtesy and politeness?

Maybe you think so. But just as soon as you are out of the theatre and some one asks your opinion of the "show," you say "rotten."

Not much courtesy in that? Not much courage either. Why not tell the actor to his face what you think? Why not hiss?

Well, the management doesn't like it. It hurts business. Therefore you would be ejected, or arrested for causing a disturbance.

You argue that you caused no disturbance, that the actor caused the disturbance. The show was so bad it disturbed you, causing you to hiss.

Sounds good, but perhaps you're wrong.

When you applaud, you express approval and the atmosphere remains peaceful.

When you hiss, you express violent disapproval and the violent disapproval is apt to express itself in violence.

If your hissing starts the whole audience to hissing, the mob psychology is such that the actors may be attacked and the theater wrecked.

That's why hissing is discouraged. It is more than discourteous. It is dangerous. It is like saying "Sic 'em!" to a dog. Sounds like it, too.

That's why you applaud, but you don't hiss.

FREEDOM

There is no substitute for freedom. Neither good government, nor national greatness can take its place. Man's right to be free is his most precious possession. Better freedom in rage than autocracy with all the wealth of the world. So Greece has spoken. The overthrow of Venizelos is that and nothing more.

In ancient Greece democracy—a Greek word—had its world birth. Not since the day of early Athens has a statesman of the peninsula done as much for his country as Venizelos. Greece is now again in the possession of her ancient territory in Thrace and Asia Minor which she lost before the Christian era. Venizelos, ranked at the peace conference as Europe's greatest statesman, gained this victory for Greece in exchange for the slight war service Greece had rendered the allied cause.

But, Venizelos acted in all things as an autocrat. He was the allies' man at Athens. He supported the allies' action in forcing Constantine to abdicate. He defended the occupation of Greek territory by the allies, as a means of fighting Bulgaria and the Germans, before Greece entered the war.

The Greek people have gained more out of the war, proportionately to their losses, than any other nation. But they were not consulted about their country's destiny. They had no particular affection for Constantine. But he was the head of their country, and he was deposed by foreign action. Freedom has no place in such a scheme of things.

If all the allies are wise, they will accept the verdict of the Greek people. To attempt to use financial pressure or military might for the purpose of nullifying the election result would only make matters worse. The Greeks are entitled to name their own ruler. If they wish Constantine to return, that is their own affair. As for Venizelos, he has now learned the lesson which stands forth throughout all Greek history. Greece ever casts aside her most beloved sons when they forget that democracy has its root in two words as ancient as the Greek language—demos, people and kratoe, rule.

Every man who has grown a mustach knows how big his upper lip looks when he shaves it off.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

GUARD THE PRIMARY SYSTEM

Judge Hughes's remark in a speech the other day that it would be folly to take away the primary election system and restore the old convention system is a reminder that Minnesota must be on its guard once more against the scheme to do that very thing in this state.

It may seem incredible in view of the vivid demonstration America had this last summer of the way politicians in convention impudently ignore the public will, but plans to kill Minnesota's primary and restore the debased and discredited convention are well under way, and will be in evidence as soon as the legislature convenes.

The ostensible reason this time, as it was two years ago, is to protect the Republican party against the Nonpartisan league.

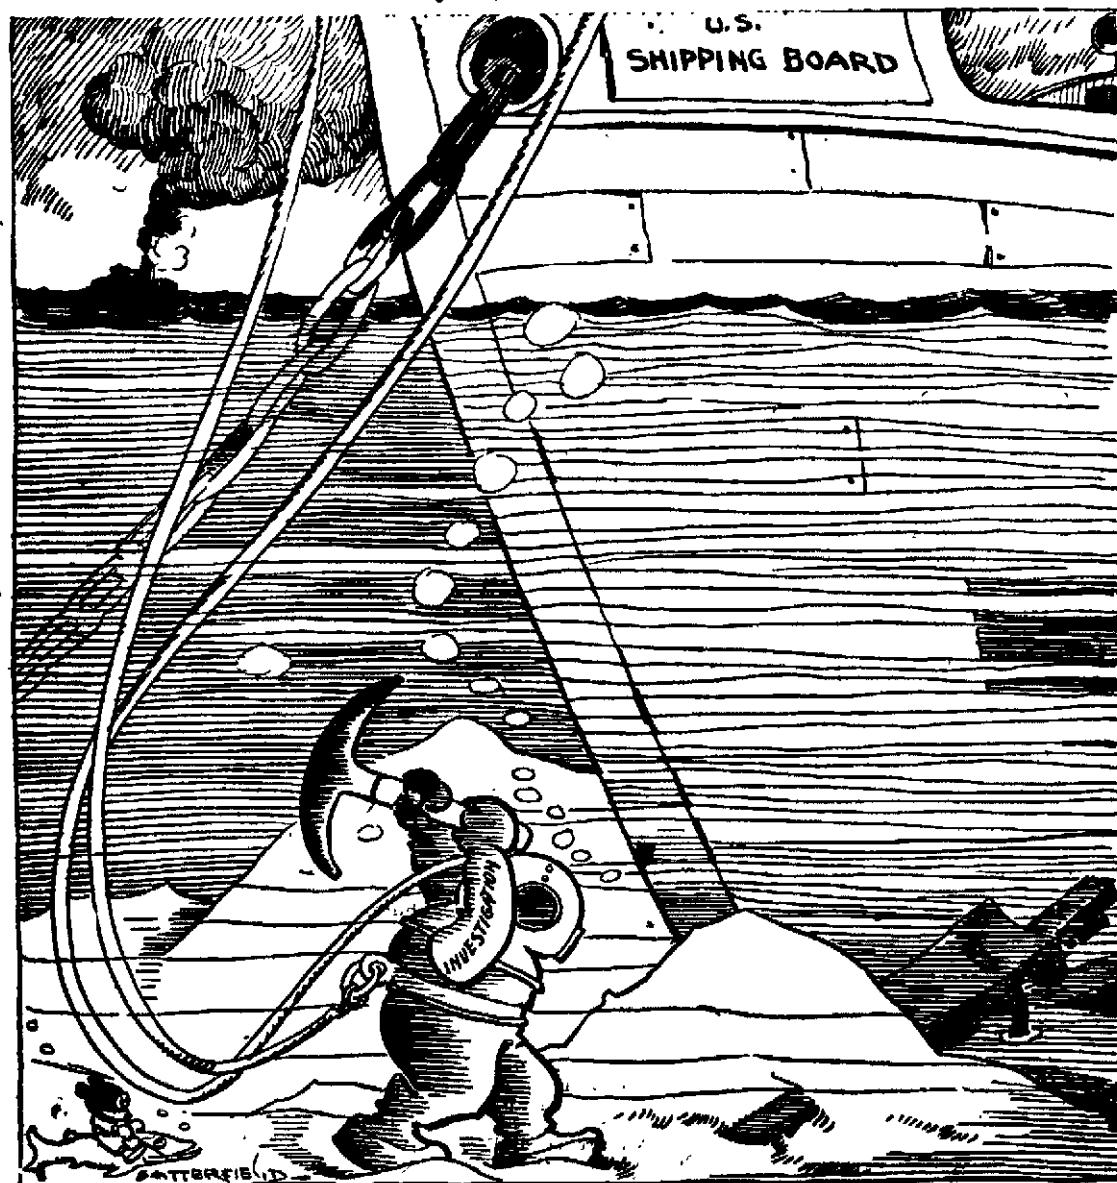

As to that, the Republicans seem able, with Democratic help when they need it, to prevent the Townley people from capturing their ticket under the present primary system.

And since the only thing that makes Townleyism dangerous is its popularity, which didn't turn out to be as great as most people had thought, it is impossible to guard election processes by artificial means against such influences without at the same time putting election processes in such "close corporation" control that ANY popular movement, however needed, could be balked.

And as to preventing the victory of undesirable candidates and causes, there are only two alternatives: First, to depend upon public enlightenment and common sense, which has worked very well in this state so far; or, second, to shape the election laws so a committee of "our best citizens"—meaning, of course, those with the largest property interests—will act as a board of censors to exclude all candidates and causes that are not pleasing to them.

Minnesota's primary law needs a few changes, but they should be made by the friends of the primary system, not by its enemies. The legislative error that omitted the old law forbidding candidates beaten at the primaries to run independent should be corrected. The nine o'clock closing of the polls is too late, and the old hour of seven should be restored for both primary and general elections.—Duluth Herald.

GETTING AT THE BOTTOM OF IT

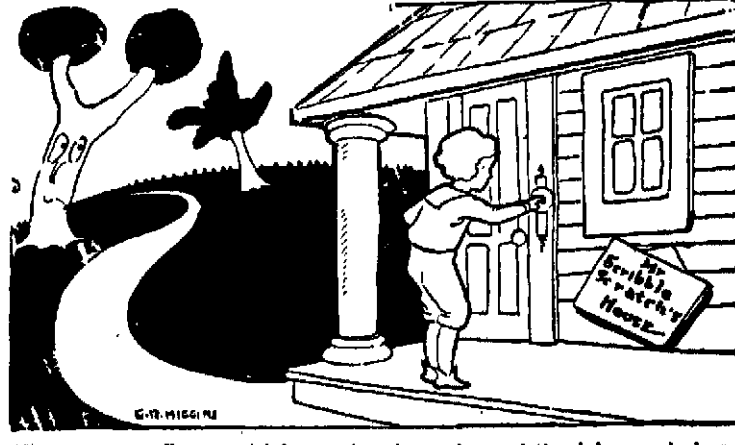

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Oliver Roberts Barton.

A MYSTERY

Nick went to Mr. Scribble Scratch's house by the biterswamp clump and rang the bell. He wished to find out what had kept the furry schoolmaster home from school that day, because it was the first time since the Mea-a sign. "Perhaps he's sick," thought the little boy, although he'd heard that fairies never get sick at all. But anyway he called out loudly, and the bedroom window being open, he was sure Scribble Scratch would have heard and answered, had he been

"Tap, tap, tap," went Nick on the front door of the fairyman's house. Nick School had started that he had stayed away.

Nancy was being substitute in the moonlight and the Magical Mushroom with his wise old head, was helping her, but even so "when the cat's away, the mice will play." Only in this case the mice weren't playing. They were keeping a sharp eye on Cobble Coon Wasp Weasel, Orrie Owl and so on. And what was more the latter were returning the compliment.

"Tap, tap, tap," went Nick on the front door of the fairyman's house. But no one came to let him in. Then he tapped again, this time quite loudly, but still there wasn't there. But there wasn't a sound. Only the echo of his own voice which the rocks and trees sent back.

Nick wondered what he'd better do next. Could it be the schoolmaster had torn two leaves off his calendar instead of one, and thought that this was Saturday? Perhaps he'd gone visiting his relatives or had taken a trip back to the Fairy Queen's Palace to report about things.

He went to the back door next and looked around. The milk bottle was taken in, so the fairyman couldn't be sick in bed. But there was something else—a mark a footprint. Nick looked closely. "I do believe," said he, "that it's Waspy Weasel's."

SATURDAY EVENING LETTER

(By Justice J. E. Robinson)

November, 27, 1920.—TAX REDUCTION, THRIFT AND ECONOMY.

These are timely questions to consider. In each department of government, both state and national, waste, extravagance or graft is too common. Men are too liberal in expending the money of others. There are too many unjust stewards who make friends with the Mammon of piousness.

To one there is guaranteed a six per cent return while the others have no guarantee of any return. The lawyers and the courts are responsible for a good share of the high taxes. In the administration of justice there is no proper regard for economy. It is the same as it was a nineteen centuries ago when Christ said: "Woe unto ye also ye lawyers, for ye have made men with burdens grievous to be borne, and ye yourselves touch not the burdens with one of your fingers."

However, in North Dakota within the past four years the Supreme Court has made some wondrous progress. Regular court terms do now commence on the first Tuesday of each month and the judges aim to conclude the business of each term before the commencement of the next. Suitors who appeal to the court do not have to pay several hundred or several thousand dollars for the needless printing of records and briefs in accordance with the custom of most appellate courts. But still here is room for reform. In the writing of judicial opinions or decisions some judges continue the habit of turning out what we call longwinded or whale opinions, which are never read and which to book and publish does impose a needless and wasteful tax of about $20 a page. When a judge makes an opinion of twenty or twenty-five pages he unwittingly adds to the tax burden about $500, enough to pay his salary for one month. What if such an opinion were written for some good business man to read and publish? would he not throw it into the fire and discharge the writer? To put a stop to the booking of such decisions it may be necessary to obtain some legislative action. Surely there is no occasion for a judicial opinion of more than five or six pages. The decisions of the U. S. Supreme court rarely exceed six or seven pages. The limit is more commonly two or three pages. Of course any judicial opinion should commence by giving a brief statement of the case so the reader may know what it is all about and may apprehend the reasoning. This may be done in one or two sentences or paragraphs. Thus in lieu of copying pleadings covering over twelve pages, we have written only "The

HIS "OFFICE MAN" IS A WOMAN

Any. C. B. Cravens, Carrington, N. D., knows now that a woman, properly trained, can do a man's work. He phoned Dakota Business College, Fargo, N. D., for "a capable office man." Miss Markwood was sent.

Dakota-trained young women get good places with splendid chances for advancement everywhere. University of Washington employs Miss E. Burnett as secretary. Miss E. Nelson is office woman for the Monarch Store of Tower City.

"Follow the Successful" Write F. L. Watkins, Pres., 806 Front St., Fargo, N. D., for terms.

complaint, and the answer show that each party charged the other with cruelty and desertion." In that way a person may give the gist, pith, substance and effect of any statute or record. Of course it makes a little more work; it is much easier to say to the stenographer: Copy this, copy that; but a judge is paid for work and for saving expense. Some five years ago the West Publishing company ascertained by actual count of words that in North Dakota the Supreme Court decisions were longer than in any other state. The showing is that our decisions were too expensive and slipshod. The lawyers are much to blame for the long opinions. Seldom do they submit a brief giving a concise statement of the law and the facts. They present an appeal record with a thousand objections and exceptions and a hundred assignments of error. They discuss every trivial point and take offense when a judge does not do likewise. A law brief should never exceed thirty or forty pages. If better briefs were submitted the judges would write better and more concise decisions.

In time, in money, and in vexation the administration of justice does not cost too much. It is a fearful tax. There is nothing so expensive. The trial of actions do often impose on taxpayers and suitors a burden that is grievous to be borne. The record is swollen, the trial delayed and made doubly expensive by improper motions, questions, objections and exceptions. It is high time for the courts and the lawyers to ponder the words of Christ and to put the practice of the law on a higher plane so as not to impose burdens that are grievous to be borne.

IN STARTED BY STAR In preceding comedy successes, Constance Talmadge has been guilty of many endearing but naughty pranks.

The inimitable star has officiated as an expert in affairs of the heart—searched for a sinner with amusing consequences, and even defied convention by accepting the hospitality of five nice old "daddies," for a week without a chaperon. But in her latest First National Attraction, "Good References," which will be shown at the Eltinge Theatre for two days, commencing Monday, Connie nearly oversteps the border of playfulness, when she sets fire to Bridget Mulligan's boarding house, commonly known as Journey's End.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Grove's LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE tablets. The genuine bears the signature of E. W. Grove. 30c.

Over fifty years ago a young physician practiced widely in a rural district and became famous for his uniform success in the curing of disease. This was Dr. Pierce, who afterwards established himself in Buffalo, N. Y., and placed one of his prescriptions, which he called "Golden Medical Discovery," in the drug stores of the United States so that the public could easily obtain this very remarkable tonic, corrective and blood-maker. Dr. Pierce manufactured this "Discovery" from roots and barks—a corrective remedy, the ingredients of which nature had put in the fields and forests, for keeping us healthy. Few folks or families now living have not at sometime or other used his "Golden Medical Discovery" for the stomach, liver and heart. Over twenty-four million bottles of this tonic and blood remedy have been sold in this country.

GRIDIRON TOLL 13 LIVES; MORE THAN LAST YEAR

Less Than Few Years Ago. However. Compilations Show—
Mostly High School Boys

ONE ON THE "SANDLOT"

Chicago, Nov. 27.—Football exacted a toll of 13 lives during the 1926 season, which closed with Thanksgiving day, according to reports to the Associated Press today.

The number of deaths was seven greater than in 1915 and three above the mark of two years ago.

There were 12 lives lost during the 1917 season in 1916 and 15 in 1915. The majority of the youths killed this season were high school players who may have engaged in the game without sufficient physical training for so rough a sport without proper instruction.

Only two of the dead were members of the college aggregations, two on college teams. One boy 12 years old was killed in a game of the sandlot variety.

Eight were members of the high teams.

BOY REACHES RECORD NOTE

ROBERT MURRAY

TACOMA, Wash. Robert Murray, age 12, sings a higher note than any other human voice has touched. He was discovered by Mme. Frances Alga Murray, sang for her a difficult chorale of the kind Gatti-Curci and Tetrazzini alone can master. Caruso, Herold and other artists are ready to testify as to his musicianship when the time comes for his presentation to the public.

ship, which was presented to him by Tex Rickard, when he scored a technical knockout over Joe Welling of Chicago, in the fourteenth round of what was to have been a 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden last night.

Leonard did not show the effectiveness of his punches until the thirteenth round, when he sent Welling down three times, Welling going through the ropes on two of these occasions and being groggy in going to his corner. Leonard seemed over-anxious to finish his task at the opening of the fourteenth round and simply battered his opponent to the floor with lefts and rights for a count of nine. Welling showing remarkable gameness, tottered to his feet. The referee, however, decided that Welling had received sufficient punishment and stepped between the men, although Welling and his seconds protested that he was able to continue.

In the opening bout of six rounds, Harvey Bright, Brooklyn featherweight, was given the decision over Jimmy Powers, Hoboken. Jeff Duffy, Chicago, middleweight, lost a ten round bout with Frank McGuire of Williamsport, Pa. "Panama Joe" Gans, negro middleweight champion, knocked out George Christian of California in the third round of a scheduled 10-round semi-final bout.

ARMY AND NAVY READY FOR FRAY

New York, Nov. 27.—After short workouts at the Polo grounds yesterday the army and navy football teams rested last night and were ready for their annual game here this afternoon. Though the navy eleven rises a slight favorite in the betting, being quoted to win at odds of 11 to 10, it is generally conceded that the two teams appear to be more evenly matched this season than in some years.

Among the early arrivals from official government circles of Washington were Secretary of the Navy Daniels and his family and Secretary of War Baker and party.

"BAT" NELSON IN FIGHT FOR ESTATE

Chicago, Nov. 27.—Property valued at $150,000 which Oscar "Batling" Nelson says he earned in the ring.

Home-made, but Has No Equal for Coughs

Makes a family supply of really dependable cough medicine. Prepared, and costs about 25¢.

If you have a severe cough or chest cold accompanied with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up during the night with croup and you want quick help try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pine's Pine. Put this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. It does not. This recipe makes a pint of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and breaks the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes with such promptness, ease and certainty that it is really astonishing.

Pine's is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds.

There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid deception, ask for "2½ pines of Pine's" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded.

Pine's Co., Ft. Warr-

from 1900 to 1912 is at stake in a suit filed in superior court by the former lightweight boxer to restrain his brothers and sisters from interfering with his control of the property.

Nelson's suit declares that the estate left to him by his father was entirely his own and that he turned it over to his father during the latter's life-time to be managed for him.

FORD HANGS UP NEW AUTO SALES RECORD IN OCT.

99,967 Cars Made in Month, or
One in Every Eighteen and Half Seconds

During October 99,967 Ford cars were made in the Ford factory at Detroit and shipped out to join the four and one-half million already in service. This is the highest record ever reached by the Ford company, or any other company. Thirty-three more cars would have brought production up to the 100,000 mark for the month.

October 26 was the banner day, having brought forth 4,688 cars. This was also a record breaker. It means that one car was completed every eighteen and one-half seconds for the entire twenty-four hour day. The Ford estimate for this year is one and one-quarter million cars and trucks.

It was during the fall of 1909 that Henry Ford placed on the market his now famous Model "T"—the car that brought Ford unquestioned supremacy in the motor car industry. To date, more than four and one-half million of this one model have been built and distributed to the four corners of the world. Of models prior to the "T", thirty thousand were manufactured.

During 1910, 13,644 Ford cars were built a tremendous output for those days. Yet in ten years from that time Ford production has grown to more than one million a year.

Almost half of the motor cars in the world are Ford cars. In the United States and Canada a little better than one-half are Fords.

Seen Tired of Life.

A Lawrence (Kan.) young man, who craved the life of a fireman, applied for a position at the department and was told to report for duty at seven o'clock Thursday morning. Shortly after seven a practice drill was staged with all the thrills of a real alarm, with the new recruit an interested spectator. After the drill the chief brought in an application for insurance for the new fireman and asked him who should be notified in case he was the victim of an accident. The recruit said there would be no accidents so far as he was concerned, and thereupon tendered his resignation, having been a fireman for a period of 30 minutes.

Riches of the Indian Tribes.

In connection with the practical reservation industries maintained by the government there are conducted twelve demonstration and three experimental farms, and nearly 400 farmers, stockmen and assistants are employed and live near Indian communities for giving instruction and counsel. Under authority of the law the service handles large sums annually in loans to Indians as initial capital for beginning their self-support and looks after the later liquidation of these loans. The value of all individual and tribal property, if recent mineral returns are included, is approximately $1,000,000,000.

Community Progress Through Co-operation

Greater community progress can only be achieved through cooperation of everyone everywhere in Burleigh County. There are no limits to our progress if we all work hard and give the other fellow an honest deal.

Each one of us occupies a necessary place in the general plan of life, and in exchange for his services to all the rest of us, is entitled to a good living according to the American standard.

Help your neighbor, help your country friend, help your city friend—that we may all achieve a larger measure of community progress than would be possible were each of us to work for himself alone.

The Coming War Between the "Closed" and "Open" Shop

In the belief that the "open-shop" crusade is intended to undo everything union labor has accomplished and to "feudalize America," the heads of the American Federation of Labor are making war plans. These labor leaders agree "that a united front must be presented to these attacks, and that every unwarranted attempt to reduce wages and working conditions to prewar levels must be resisted with every legitimate weapon." Thus, as the Baltimore Sun notes, labor and capital are lining up for a final fight. The leading business interests "will bargain collectively with labor only when forced to do so" and "a concentrated campaign of the employers' interests already has been launched against organized labor on the reaffirmation of the 'open shop' principle and on the stand that wages must be reduced as part of the process of deflation."

The labor situation is probably the biggest problem that confronts the great mass of the American people today, and as this article in the "DIGEST" this week—November 27th—presents opinions from all sides, it will be read closely.
